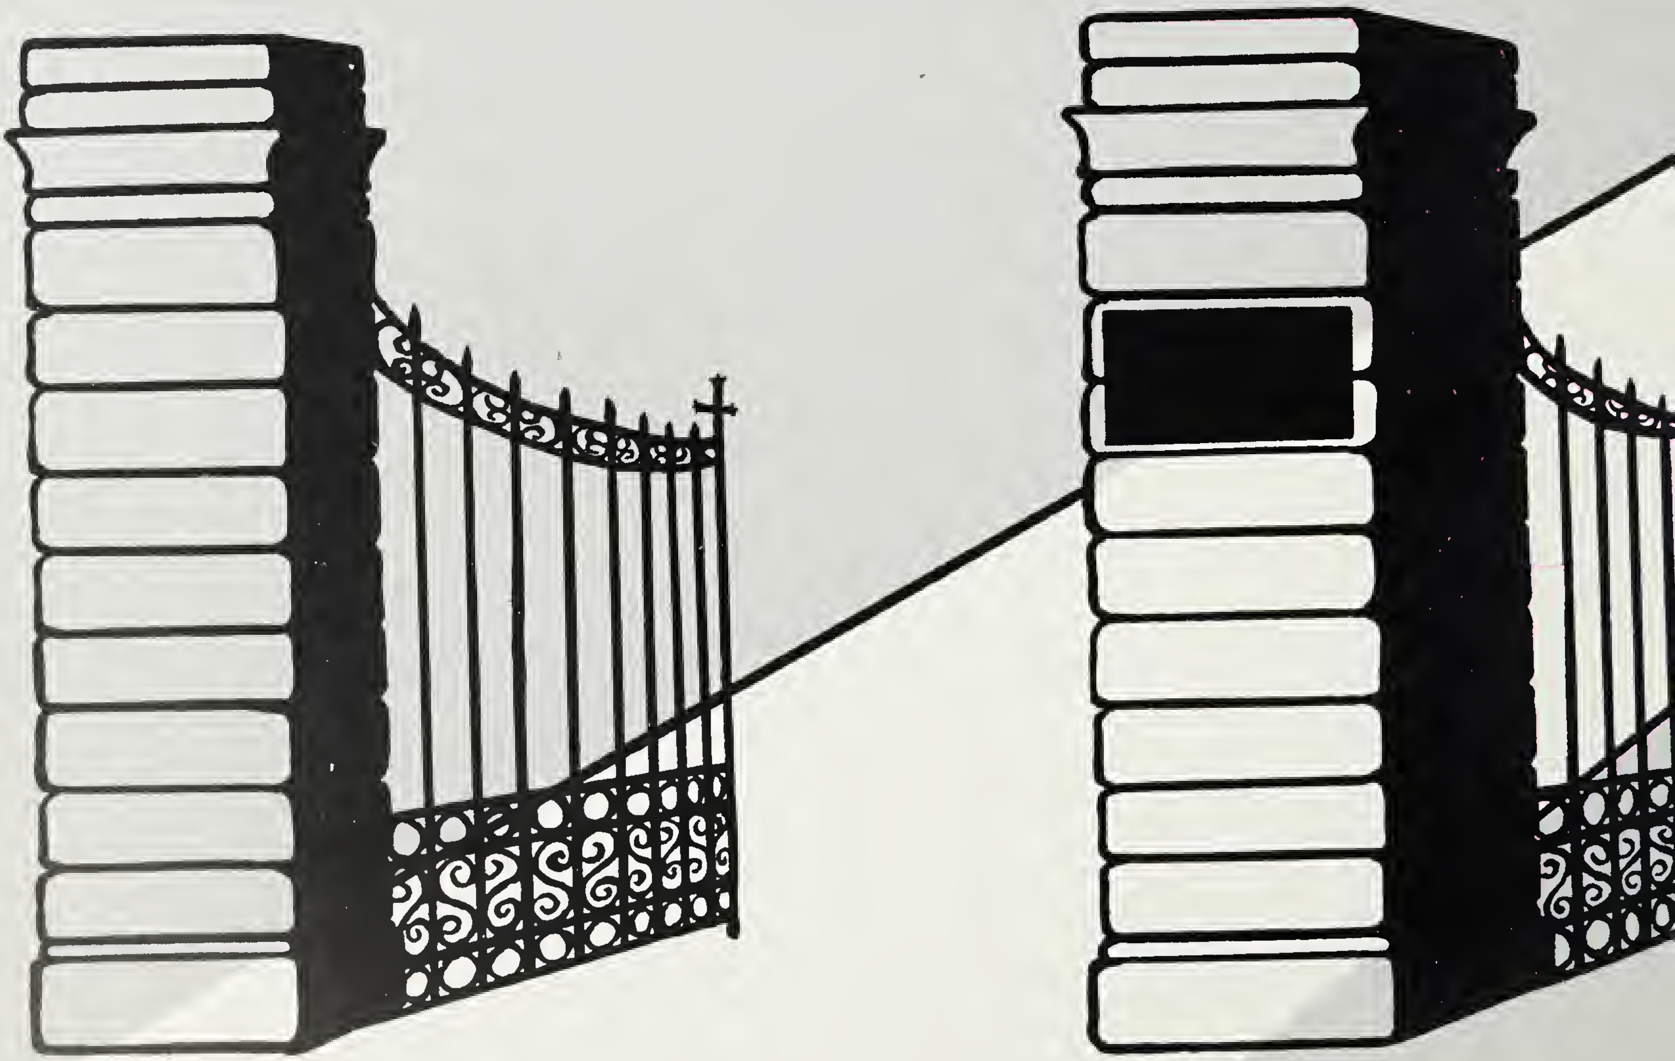
Manhattanville College

Class of 1952 presents . . .

The



1951

Tower

Manhattanville College
New York, New York

Foreword

Manhattanville is a way of life. The love that is the source of our strength, the truth that is the guide and the goal, the faith that is the motive for our hope integrate our activity. In a world reflecting the chaos of men's minds, our love, our truth, our faith provide an unchanging standard. After commencement it rests with us to realize these principles in all their fullness, seeing the past in perspective and carrying into the future a hierarchy of values.

Dedication

Our Lady who art in Heaven
Direct, sustain, forgive.
For we who live with fear
Are weak, are children who
Despair, yet are forever hopeful.
The strength that issues from thy grace
We need; the beauty that is in
Thy face, we love. For past these gates
Are dangers that we see not now,
Yet know exist, cold wretchedness
And terrors that we cannot
By ourselves resist. Mother
Without sin, who knew Love's power
Know us: powerless, and void
Forever pitiful.
Queen who conquered
Give us strength to conquer
Now, and past these gates
The world.

Tink's self-assured dignity is apparent in everything about her—her erect carriage, her quiet charm, her cosmopolitan interests. That glowing mid-winter tan, evidence of a vacation in the sun, makes her the recipient of many an envious glance, while her common sense and laughter enliven any gathering.

Janey's girl scouts idolize her and everyone marvels at her unlimited energy. For the girl dashing to the Relief Room, balancing boxes and bundles, throws her whole self into everything she does. Begging donations for her Pot o' Gold or suddenly splashing about in the pool, she keeps life as gay and warm-hearted as she herself.

Barby is a New Englander through and through, Yankee humor, Harvard accent and an outlook that remains undisturbed in moments of crisis. Her schedule of good times includes seeing the current Broadway productions and attending the Met whenever the opportunity presents itself. Fun-loving, serene and forthright, Barby will never wear out our welcome.

Down in the Little Theatre's land of make believe, our own Cecil B. can be found soothing the shattered nerves of timid actresses and worried stage hands. When production problems give her a spare moment Carolyn is a tireless worker for the Art Club and an ardent planner of Philadelphia weekends. She will be missed not only backstage but also in a great many other places on campus.

Joan's wide-eyed naiveté is tempered with an infectious chuckle. Her up-to-date knowledge of world events made her contributions to Debating Club timely and interesting. As the diplomatic and poised president of D. I. S. C. she showed us how to put into practice 'here and now' the basic principles she learned so thoroughly at Manhattanville.

Ronnie's two-toned Chevvy is never seen empty of its merry throng, but the owner's popularity is because of Ronnie herself. Her chores as the College Emily Post range from checking on Academic dress to maintaining order in the Assembly Hall. Our Ronnie takes these and all crises in her stride, meeting them with that quiet graciousness that inspires confidence in everyone around her.

Peggy's flair for the unpredictable is never buried beneath protocol. With a suitcase in one hand and a file case in the other, she passes through Manhattanville en route to a party, a meeting, or her hub of the universe. The Senior Class

The Class of '51 arrived on the heights simultaneously with the new constitution. Extended permissions and reduced penalties may have briefly overshadowed any new Freshmen, but the "little hunks of tin who weren't quite sure what they might have been" soon proved their metal. Six hundred chairs vanished from the assembly hall in forty-five minutes and Mother Brady was ready for exams in record time. Talent replaced brawn when the tuneful Norwegian Nights established Mother Morgan's class as singers and the still extant pink dresses as part of the Manhattanville tradition.

So, musical and gay, '51 braved the rigors of Sophomore year. Literary masterpieces were painfully produced. They civilized Europe, objectively for better, subjectively for worse and left Metternich at Vienna to take the college on the Manhattan Merry-go-round. Finally, haggard but happy, the Sophomores serenaded '49 to success.

By Junior year, the intentions placed around Saint Joseph's statue were bearing fruit. When Maureen exhausted the engagement list, she merely mentioned the weddings. But the new upper-classmen returned to childhood in convincing the college that Mother Goose land is reality as Wishing Wells and Cockle Shells captivated all. Alumnae week-end, first tree planting at Purchase and appropriate prophecies all ceased to be problems under the harmonious management of the "soon-to-be" Seniors.

In September, 1950, the one-time little tin Fords began the last lap of their Manhattanville road. The test of their endurance was at hand as illegal loc. cits. chased imaginary bibliographies around the Fordham Format to a desperate end: Dear Mother, I'm not typing my own thesis anyhow! Plato's Republic established Mother Weston's government but the more frivolous side of life was experienced at the second Student-Faculty Party.

Revolving around Mother Morgan's vital love and intuitive understanding, and led with surety by Maureen and Mickey, the Seniors have lived for us their ideals of service with love. We'll remember:

Your laughter, your music,
Your friendship . . .

The Junior Class

The hurdle between Broadway and Lower Deck safely bridged, the Class of '52 settled down in September to work and play. The Freshmen were installed on the Heights with a minimum of confusion, thanks to Becky's "Mobilization" technique, and the Juniors guided them through placement tests and hazing with mounting affection. When the year was done, the kreepy keys had won a secure place in the hearts of all their big sisters.

Conditioned by Survey Courses, the jaunty Juniors were prepared for almost anything in the way of studies. The Metaphysical outlook was adopted with little trouble, yet the Tea House saw them more and more; orange juice and coffee were consumed in gargantuan quantities. The prospect of those blissfully free Saturday mornings lightened the burdens of the week's work.

Junior year brought new responsibilities to '52, and the Housewarming Party was their first contribution to College frivolity. Charades lampooned everything from the Liguria to crack-of-dawn fire drills. The Tower, the class gift to the Seniors, was attacked early in the year, and although minor catastrophies added that desperate look to a few faces, the book went to press right on schedule. Confusion reigned supreme that first day the new ushers were on the job, but practice made perfect, and by Carol-time, seats were found, added, even conjured up with the greatest of ease.

So, with Mother Byles' smiling encouragement and Jeanne and Nancy leading the way, the Class of '52 moved one step nearer the top of the ladder. As they bade a prophetic farewell to the Seniors, '52 looked back to a full and happy three years at Manhattanville and forward to 1952 itself.

The Sophomore Class

Many curious Seniors cocked their ears for snatches of the Serenades. But '53 kept their songs well hidden and thrilled both Seniors and guests with the sudden revelation of their vocal talents on the night before graduation. For the true spirit of sisters pervaded their lilting tones.

With their limitless energy they had progressed from one-time Puny Papooses to the status of Regal Reporters. After confabs in the Tea House and bridge in the Solarium punctuated with cries of "I don't know why I'm here, I have so much work to do", they pored over gory Grendel and busy Bonaparte with strength enough left over to produce an entertainment. And only the Sophomores would think of staging a real Mardi-Gras play.

Seniors were saddened at the thought of leaving their sisters just as '53 came of age, while Juniors have confidence in the leadership of Phil and Joan to bring '53 through their career as upperclassmen.

The Freshman Class

It was only a few hours after their arrival that the Class of '54 was singing On the Heights with all the enthusiasm of long-time Villains. Confronted by a bewildering whirl of tests, assemblies, and parties, they proved that even heavy schedules could not daunt them. By the time upperclassmen returned eager to welcome the newcomers, the Freshmen, thanks to fond big sisters, were orientated and prepared to meet them.

The Kreepy Keys bowed to the authority of the Regal Reporters with all due humor and humility. They emerged from the ordeal tried, tested and approved by the entire college. As usual, hazing did more than anything else to make the group a class. The dining-room echoed with their spur-of-the-moment songs, and the Tea House resounded with their harmony.

Thanksgiving found major elections completed and the new officers ready, willing and able to assume their responsibilities. Wally and Carol took their oaths of office in assembly and, guided by Mother Brady, they led the Freshmen through that first bewildering year at Manhattanville.

Student Government

N. Moran, J. Slattery, M. Joy.

Fridays on campus bring Student Government assemblies. The organization and the right it involves of governing ourselves has become such a part of our lives that we almost take it for granted. We cannot think of Manhattanville without officers like Maureen and Mickey, who not only enforce rules, but perform for us the hundreds of tedious tasks that must be done. Every student is aware that she herself is student government. Every student is also aware that she can have complete trust in her elected delegates who will always give what is best for Manhattanville and for its "natives".

Welfare

It takes a heap of living to make a house a home. Manhattanville has been a home not just because four hundred girls live in it but because they strive for united and gracious living. Ronnie and her helpers, working through the individual Class Councils, aim at a high standard of politeness and decorum. The touchstone for their task lies in Christian charity, generosity and thoughtfulness. Thanks to Welfare, Manhattanville is not just a home but a graciously run home.

An advance guard is what St. Madeleine Sophie called the Children of Mary of the Sacred Heart. At Manhattanville, under the guidance of Mother O'Byrne, Phyllis and the Council, the Children of Mary try to bring the College to a fuller love of Our Lord through His mother. Fortified with the highest ideals and a practical plan of living, they leave Manhattanville, Apostles of Our Lady.

Choir

Choir voices an ageless prayer. A practical idealism rouses sleepy members for pre-breakfast rehearsals where Adrianna supervises libers and latecomers with tranquil assurance. All gaiety lends itself to music, but the essential vitality of choir's song springs from appreciation of Mother Morgan's precept: Remember, you are singing to God!

Catholic Action

In a world that is destructive of ideals, we must give knowledge and set an example of Christian living. Lell and her Council have found many opportunities for us—discussion clubs, working with Girl Scouts, teaching catechism. This weekly hour of giving brings to us a more vivid picture of life, while it brings to others our knowledge of the faith.

For Christ, therefore, we are Ambassadors.

Show business is no business to be in unless you can paint a little, sew a little, act a little and laugh a lot. Dramat started an ambitious year by uniting with Madrigals in the production of House of Wisdom. Later, supported by Mother Fiske and Miss Bachmann, the actresses treated Manhattanville to its first Molière presentation, The Learned Ladies. When last we heard of Carolyn and Janet they were busily encouraging people to acquire British accents for Barrie's Alice Sit-By-The-Fire.

Club

Every Tuesday night Debating Club members aired their views in the Blue Room and when the arguments became too heated, Franny smoothed the ruffled feathers. Mr. McClelland indicated the fine points of debating and Mother Parton nodded encouragement to the speaker of the moment. Debates with other colleges were more frequent than usual this year and the Freshmen and Seniors settled the inter-class debate in forum style. The topic was always chosen for its current interest and with the objective of helping speaker and listener alike to gain in understanding and in the ability to present their ideas.

Athletic Association

Class games and inter-collegiate matches brought out an excited audience. Buoyed by Mother O'Gorman's contagious enthusiasm, we followed the spirited example of the new cheerleaders and applauded loud and long.

The skill and zest pour le sport of the many athletes in the college gave Miss Holland and Mrs. D. the material they wanted, and they coached every team to perfection. El and Julie showed us the way in three fun-filled seasons, complete with bruises, scraped shins, teas and excitement.

Armed with a new constitution and encouraged by Mother Williams, the members of the English Club met twice a month to discuss the Short Story. Sparks of initiative were fired at club gatherings by President Judy Brown. Clichés had a fling at the first party of the year, but members soon settled down to their critical and creative work. Ensuing thoughts were carried from the Lounge to the typewriter, and, with luck, into the Essay itself.

The Essay is a product of a modern Scribblerus Club. Editor Nancy Griesmer presided this year at board meetings in Mother Williams' office and produced the monthly literary magazine contributed to by M'ville's students and alumnae.

Major Clubs Plan For New Season

Dramat goes French: In Dramat this year, the last eloquent word on staging, costumes, make-up and acting prowess is being left to the sound discretion of Mother Fiske and Miss Muriel Bachmann, whom the club welcomes as its new directors.

The club advises the college that the main attraction on the night of November 29 will not be in the gym, library or tea house, but in the Little Theater, where the comic theme of Molière's The Learned Ladies will provide M'ville with a gay evening's entertainment.

Debaters active: Under the leadership of president Frannie Fraher, the Debating Club plans a busy year. Before Christmas the Club will debate here against New Rochelle, Newton, and Rosemont colleges. After the holidays the Club expects debates with many of the big colleges in the East.

On the intramural side, the annual interclass debates have been held. On October 17, Freshmen Joan Gassert and Alice Gray debated against the Junior team of Margaret Ann Becker and Anne Hannan; while Tommy Cadden and Anne McCarthy, Sophomores, opposed the Seniors, M. K. Donovan and Pat Heffernan.

The topic debated was the national collegiate one for this year: "Should the non-Communist nations form a new international organization?" The finals in the interclass debate will be held November 8th, when the first-round winners, the Seniors and the Freshmen will challenge each other in the bid to be the winning class team.

BOOK X
FOR TRA

This fall, the Book Exchange was a joint project sponsored by NSA and NFCCS. Frances Murphy, Masako Saito, Mary Sheehan, and Ann Fitzgerald worked to make it a success.

Books were brought into the Exchange last May hy the students. After selling these books and paying the students their share, the profit was $253. These proceeds will go into a fund which enables foreign students to tour the U.S.

SEND A COPY TO THE FAMILY:

Extra copies of The Centurion and The Essay are on sale in the gym at one p.m., on the day that the issues appear. They can also be obtained through Business Manager Joyce Casey, '51. Price per copy: Centurion: 25c Essay: 50c

This year's Centurion staff were assigned "beats" which covered every news source on the Heights. Our editor Fin took the articles, labored long and well to space them in the copy, and the Centurion came off the press a better-than-ever expression of Manhattanville's family life.

The Tower

Our eyes were closed, our minds were numb when we staggered off to press. Nothing was too good for '51 and we were determined to give them the best. We wrote, we prayed, we worked. And finally, survivors of mixed metaphors, crushing candids and lost lists, we reached the end. Seniors, you were worth it!

Relief Committee

When the Relief Room is proudly opened for inspection on Feast Days, we see the result of the hard work Janey and her crew have put in. Rows of clothes for Europe's poor are arrayed in neat lines, and boxes already packed are stacked on the floor.

The perenially successful Bridge Tea for the benefit of "Relief" was as popular as ever this year; the Pot o' Gold spilled out all sorts of prizes, from a huge pink horse to a mammoth cheesecake; and the fashion show, given by Altman's previewed the Christmas scene and forecast a happy June.

Tea Dance and Prom

Sunday tea dances were even more successful this year, thanks to the addition of a real orchestra. Ben Cutler and Lester Lanin provided the music, and the Committee supplied the friendly charm which made the tea dancers beam, "Yes, we had a wonderful time!"

The climax of the season was the Christmas Ball. Silver snow stars, white sleighs and reindeers decked the gym, and Manhattanville's young ladies again blessed their Fairy Godmothers. Mi and her committee had waved the wand. Not one glass slipper was misplaced as Ben Cutler's orchestra played Good Night, Ladies though many had been shaken loose by vigorous Charlestons and Sambas.

Frivolous Affairs

Frivolous Affairs keeps us in contact with the cultural opportunities of New York City. Barbara and Celia choose the best in plays, concerts, operas, and thus we join lighter interests with academic learning.

B. Kearins, C. Yulo.

N. F. C. C. S. and N. S. A.

The National Federation of Catholic College Students was founded at Manhattanville in 1937, and we have maintained an active interest, nationally and regionally. Peggy Walsh, as First Vice President of the New York-New Jersey Region works closely with the commission system, while two delegates represent Manhattanville in the Regional Council. European tours and a successful relief program are only two of the many aspects of student life covered by N.F.C.C.S.

Mary K. Donovan represented the college in the New York region of the National Student Association and served as chairman of the National Commission on International Affairs. Seeing in N.S.A. an unmatched opportunity for furthering Catholic ideals the delegates have cooperated closely with the organization.

These two organizations cooperate with Student Government and the individual clubs. Guided by Mother Byles' enthusiasm and foresight, we have joined with other colleges in making Catholic students aware of their responsibilities.

In Appreciation

Reverend Mother Fitzgerald, Mother O'Byrne, Mother Weston: We relied on your support and encouragement that we knew was always there.

Mother Byles: With you confidence and prayers, no project of '52's can fail.

Mother Morgan: Your gifts of laughter, insight and time were so willingly given when we needed them!

Mother O'Gorman: Your apropos comments made captioning fun!

Mother Brady: Your hospitality in the Registrar's office was indispensable.

Miss Cave: Your patience and time in the Conference Room improved our faulty English.

Miss Todd: The use of the Art Studio and your experienced advice made it so much easier!

Mr. Ball: Your helpful suggestions and patient advice were invaluable.

Our Parents and Friends: Again you helped us in an undertaking.

The Junior proofreaders, typists and Tower Board roommates: Without you we could not have gone to print.

Thank you all for the generosity and help that make
Manhattanville a way of life!

Beautiful Hair

BRECK

BRECK HAIRDRESS LEAVES HAIR SOFT AND MANAGEABLE

Breck Hairdress, formerly called Trucene, leaves your hair soft and manageable. It may be used daily without leaving an oily appearance. Breck Hairdress may be applied directly to the hair or diluted in warm water and used as a cream rinse. It helps condition dry, harsh or brittle hair.

The new 2½ ounce size Breck Hairdress sells for 50c plus 10c tax.
